Pet Provisions advised in the event of a catastrophe

Animal owners should make preparation now to prevent the destruction of their pets in the event of a natural catastrophe or enemy bombing, advised Carlton E. Buttrick, president of the Animal Rescue League of Boston.

Buttrick further advises keeping leashes, cages with warm covers, food and water and other pet equipment handy with the family supplies in case rapid evacuation becomes necessary.

For the danger of fallout, he recommends that pets share the family shelter. For the animal that is too large or otherwise unsuitable for the family shelter, some arrangement for protection from fallout should be set up in advance.

flood areas

In flood-likely areas, a corral or other high, fenced ground should be set up as protection for livestock and provided with at least one week's supply of food and water. Crates or boxes and a food supply should be kept ready for moving to a safe area. *

Mouse Club Formed in California

Mouse fanciers in California met recently to form a national mouse club to promote the mouse fancy in this country. Formed by enthusiastic fanciers who felt the need for a club to sponsor shows, aid in providing breeding standards and perform various other functions needed, the club has appointed temporary officers and made tentative plans for their first official show.

Until an election by the membership can be held in conjunction with the first annual show, the club's affairs will be handled by Charles Arrowsmith, president; Robert Howinski, vice-president; Richard Pfarr, secretary-treasurer; and Stan Carpenter, publicity chairman.

Because of the national scope of the club, the country has been divided into districts. Six district representatives will be appointed to handle details within each district.

American mouse fanciers are invited to join the club and participate actively in its activities. Annual dues are $5 with a junior membership available at $3 to applicants under 18 years of age. Information may be obtained from Richard Pfarr, secretary, American Mouse Club, 3614 Spohn Dr., Fontana, Calif. *
